Dear Prudential:

I am a first-year student at the University of Wisconsin Law School, and I am writing to express my interest in a summer legal internship with Prudential for this summer. I am interested in employment law, but would also enjoy working in various legal areas this coming summer. I was particularly drawn to Prudential because of the company's commitment to diversity and its accolade of "Best Places to Work for LGBT Equality" given by the HRC. Being part of the LGBTQ community and having studied human rights as an undergrad, I appreciate a company which promotes an atmosphere of cultural awareness and equality.

Having interned in the Consumer Protection Division of the Nebraska Attorney General's Office, I understand maintaining high ethical standards and working in a professional legal setting. In the Attorney General's Office, I served as a mediator working with consumers to resolve complaints they had against businesses. Similar to Prudential, I sought creative and pro-active solutions for the consumers' problems, which allowed them to have peace of mind and seek financial prosperity. Additionally, I believe the effective communication skills I acquired while serving as a loan counselor with the National Student Loan Program would be beneficial while working for your company.

I would welcome the opportunity to discuss my qualifications with you further, and discuss in more detail how my experiences fit well with Prudential. Thank you in advance for your consideration, and I look forward to hearing from you soon.

Sincerely,
